Tree of Lights campaign succeeds

OVER THE TOP. Larry Dunn, left, vice president and comptroller of the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation, presents a check for $500 to Earl Dotzauer, 1979 Salvation Army Tree of Lights, campaign chairman, Thursday afternoon, putting this year's campaign over the $30,000 goal. Dotzauer is vice-president and comptroller of First Granite City National Bank. A total of 528 baskets of canned goods and staples was distributed to needy families before Christmas, furnished through personal donations and money received in the campaign.

Construction here tops $7.1 million

Despite high interest rates, building permits issued by Granite City showed that 1979 was the second busiest building year of the decade. Permits for work totaling $7,167,551 were applied for and received.

The total was the highest since 1972, when permits amounted to $8,724,032. From that year, building slowed to $2.1 million in 1973 and $1.7 million in 1974. Construction activity then increased somewhat, reaching $3.9 million in 1975 and $3.8 million in 1976, and climbed over the $5 million mark the following two years. In 1977, permits totaled $5,895,222, and in 1978 the total was $5,759,379.

Although building in 1979 showed a $1,498,552 climb from 1978, last year fell short of the record high of $13,228,529 in 1965, and the $10,731,626 in 1969.

The $46 building permits issued during 1979 included several major projects. Highlights, by month, follow.

JANUARY: Illinois-American Water Co. started a new office building. Smithway Motor Co. built a modular office and Granite City Glass remodeled the old Nameoki Road fire station.

FEBRUARY: New housing led the list; permits were issued for four new homes totaling $156,000.

MARCH: Archer, Daniels, Midland Co. began a new office building and Burger Chef got a permit for extensive remodeling. Three new homes also were started.

APRIL: Nestle Co. announced plans for a major building addition, Len's Service Station started a $10,000 improvement project and four new houses were granted permits.

MAY: Granite City Steel began a $964,000 slab building reconstruction and started a $352,000 steam pipe tressle. A $110,000 professional office building at 3120 Maryville Road was granted a permit and five new homes were started.

JUNE: The city housing authority began $830,000 worth of improvements to Kirkpatrick Homes, including gabled roofs and new windows. The city sewage treatment plant received a permit for $75,600 worth of repair work and one new home was started.

JULY: A $60,000 addition to Faith Baptist Church, an $18,000 office addition for S.M. Wilson Construction Co. and a $7,500 addition for Kienstra Concrete Co. highlighted the permits. Ray's Auto Center built a garage and three new homes were begun.

AUGUST: American Colloid started a $19,500 lunchroom addition and an $8,000 quonset hut, a $12,000 remodeling project was started for Happy Joe's Pizza and Bi-State Transit began installing bus shelters throughout the city.

SEPTEMBER: Two new houses were started and the Laborer's Union remodeled with roof and brick work.

OCTOBER: Nestle Co. received a $800,000 permit to rebuild a building. American Colloid began a $18,500 office building, construction the $67,000 Chen

Dental Clinic, 4168 Nameoki Road, was announced. Complete Auto Rebuilding got a permit for an $8,000 building addition and authority was given for constructing five new houses.

NOVEMBER: A.O. Smith Corp. announced a $450,000 building addition, a $225,000 permit was obtained by Leo Wolf to construct mini storage buildings at 2900 Pontoon Road, Air Products poured a $159,000 foundation at 2200 Monroe St., the Press-Record started a $25,000 addition at 1815 Delmar Ave., and one new home was started.

Shot fatally

Robert M. Parsons, 32, Crestwood, Mo., was shot to death early Saturday at a home in the 100 block of Warson Lane, Mitchell, allegedly by a 30-year-old friend following an argument which involved four persons.

The man said to have shot Mr. Parsons with a shotgun filled with deer shot has been released from the custody of Madison County sheriff's deputies, pending additional investigation into the shooting.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said preliminary evidence indicates that shortly after 2 a.m. Saturday, Mr. Parsons, who was a friend of the man who shot him, went to the home on Warson Lane and got into an argument with that man there, described as also being a friend of Mr. Parsons' girlfriend. She and the man were at the residence when Mr. Parsons arrived, deputies were told.

During the argument, which lasted about 15 minutes, Mr. Parsons took a large knife from his waistband and threatened the two and another woman at the home, deputies believe.

Mr. Parsons was described as intoxicated at the time, investigators said. During the time Mr. Parsons allegedly was threatening the three, the man friend was able to go to his bedroom and obtain a shotgun. He then returned to the kitchen, where Mr. Parsons was.

He entered the kitchen and Mr. Parsons allegedly again threatened him with the knife, deputies were told.

The friend then is said to have fired the shotgun once at Mr. Parsons, hitting him in the chest. Mr. Parsons was pronounced dead at the scene by Madison County Deputy Coroner Dick Mizell. An autopsy was conducted later Saturday morning.

The three who were in the home with Mr. Parsons when he was shot were interviewed at the sheriff's department, and independent statements were obtained from each, according to the spokesman.

The evidence then was presented early Saturday to a representative of the Madison County state's attorney's office, who authorized the release of the Mitchell man without charges, pending additional investigation.

Mr. Parsons' body was taken to a St. Louis funeral home.

Area weather outlook

Mostly sunny and cold today, diminishing winds, high temperature in mid 20s. Cloudy with 20 percent chance of light snow tonight and early Tuesday. Clear Tuesday afternoon.

Low tonight 15; high Tuesday in mid 20s. Winds W-NW 15-25 and gusty, diminishing to 10-20 later today.

Wednesday through Friday partly cloudy; cold Wednesday with low of 5 above to 10s. Chance of snow or possibly rain Thursday and Friday. Lows in 20s and highs in 30s.

FIRST SNOWFALL of the winter covers some of the ground Saturday near drive-through lanes of First Granite City Savings and Loan in the 1800 block of Delmar Avenue. The snow was "nothing to write home about," but served as a reminder that coping with heavier snows is a regular part of winter in the Quad-City area.

Arrest in GC kidnapping

A 27-year-old East St. Louis man was being held today by Granite City police for investigation of an alleged kidnapping here last night.

A 15-year-old Kirkpatrick Homes girl told police she was talking on the telephone in the parking lot of Corner Liquors, on Nameoki Road, across from Kirkpatrick Homes, when a black truck stopped and the man got out, stood about six inches away from her and displayed a knife.

She said the man then held the knife to her abdomen and stated, "Drop the phone and get in," pointing to the truck.

She complied and he got in beside her, ordering her to keep her head down while he held the knife to her throat.

Granite City Patrolman Douglas Law, who was watching the area from the parking lot of Kozyak's Grocery, 2600 Nameoki Road, saw the incident but could not see the knife, since the man stood between the victim and the police car.

The man also blocked the officer's view of the young woman as she got into the truck. When the truck left and Law noticed the telephone swinging off the hook, he became suspicious and followed the truck south on Nameoki Road, west on East 29th Street, south on Ridgedale Avenue, east on East 23rd Street and south on Nameoki Road again.

When the truck turned west on Route 203 (Edwardsville Road), Law stopped it near the Granite City Steel blast furnaces and approached the car. He said he heard the young woman screaming for help, so he drew his service revolver and ordered the driver out of the truck.

The victim said that at one point during her kidnapping, the man said he would not hurt her and he closed the blade of his knife and grabbed her with his hand. When she pushed his hand away, he opened the knife again and put it to her throat, she related.

She said she asked him to put the knife away again and he closed it a second time. She then grabbed the knife from him and, at that moment, the police car turned on its siren and stopped the truck, the victim told police.

Detectives planned to interview the man and the victim today before applying for felony warrants from the Madison County state's attorney's office.

Wounded by robber

Dean Gilbertson, 47, of 2801 Cayuga St., was shot in the face by a robber early Saturday morning after he had slipped his truck along Interstate 55 near the Interstate 720 interchange, east of the Quad-City area.

Gilbertson was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, with a gunshot wound beneath the right eye. He is scheduled to undergo surgery Tuesday to remove a bullet still lodged in his cheekbone.

The truck driver told police he had stopped along the Interstate to check his vehicle and was preparing to drive back into traffic when a gunman climbed into the cab from the passenger's side.

After Gilbertson refused to hand over his money, the robber shot him in the face and took the driver's wallet, papers and about $20.

The assailant also ripped out the wiper to prevent Gilbertson from calling for help.

The robber, described only as a black male, then ran to a vehicle parked behind the truck and drove off. It is not known whether an accomplice was waiting in the car.

The Granite City man told police he Fatalities down

Despite the tragic crash that killed three members of a local family on New Year's Eve, there was a substantial reduction in highway fatalities during 1979.

In Illinois State Police District 11, commanded by Lieutenant James O. Stever, there were 104 rural area fatalities, 21 less than in 1978.

Statewide, there were 2,019 traffic deaths, 118 fewer than in the previous year, a tabulation showed during the weekend.

Lieut. Stever attributes the reduction to strict enforcement of traffic laws by the Illinois State Police, and other authorities, and voluntary compliance by most drivers.

Madison County tallied 49 road fatalities in 1979, compared to 59 in 1978. In other portions of District 11, St. Clair County recorded 68 (up from the 58 total in 1978); Montgomery County 11 (10); Clinton 14 (18); Macoupin 10 (12); Monroe six (eight); Jersey six (four);

Greene three (three); and Bond County, three fatalities (nine). Grand total for District 11, 170 (182).

Grant approved for GC parks

A $33,412 federal grant to the Granite City Park District has been approved, it was announced Friday.

The district will replace an existing picnic shelter between the Wilson Park ice skating rink and Niedringhaus School with a new 24x50-foot shelter. It is to be completed by May 1 under present plans of the park board, which will next meet on Jan. 22.

Two coats of paint will be applied to the wood surface underneath the ice rink's roof. This work will be done during the summer.

Overall cost of the two projects is $66,825, of which the federal government will provide half.

The Land and Water Conservation Act grant was obtained through the Illinois

Department of Conservation.

Testimony related to the grant application was given by President George Sykes and Jeff Worthen of the park board and Harold Brown, director of parks and recreation.

Continued loss of students will require more cutbacks

By JOSEPH M. CRONIN
Illinois Superintendent of Education

The Eighties: What challenges face Illinois education? How can the state help local school officials?

Have we achieved equality — for the handicapped, the gifted, minorities and women? Have we achieved necessary economies in operating our schools, or will we need to continue to make difficult decisions well into the 1980s?

Can we expect the State Board of Education to work constructively with local school officials to work on the answers to the problems?

First, have we achieved equity — not equality of treatment, but equal opportunity, the chance to benefit from as much education as one is capable of absorbing?

Illinois has traveled a great distance toward educational equity since 1975.

We have 220,000 handicapped persons in educational programs for which we each year raise an additional half-billion dollars — local, state and federal funds combined. No handicapped child in Illinois needs to be deprived of an equal chance.

We have sixty school districts which have desegregated their schools, totally or in part — the vast majority without going to court.

We have doubled the number of young women taking part in organized athletics — so that one in three Illinois high school tournament competitors is likely now to be female.

Local school boards over and over again have responded positively to the challenge to expand opportunities for the handicapped, minorities or women.

What remains to be done? Six of our cities continue to need help with desegregation, and we remain optimistic about out-of-court settlements.

Meanwhile, all school board members, especially in communities with few minorities, can help the cause of racial justice by working quietly and positively with realtors and fair housing officials.

What we have done for the gifted? Enforcing the legal requirement on individualized educational plans for handicapped children has made so much sense that we are now asking whether or not we should provide the same treatment for the gifted, our very precious pool of future leaders.

I commend the St. Charles board for agreeing to be a statewide pilot for developing IEP's (individualized educational plans) for the gifted student.

The State Board has raised the state programs for gifted per capita from $40 per pupil to $60 without a mandate, and we wish to continue to stimulate programs of districts' own choice.

We have seen in the past years witnessed a new migration of Asians and Hispanics to our smaller communities, to suburbs as well as cities.

Bilingual education — of a transitional nature to make them better able to deal with the large society — will become more important in the 1980s.

Regrettably, the number of women superintendents and principals in Illinois has declined faster than the closing of buildings or consolidation of school districts. Yet, the numbers of women on local boards has increased. No one can explain this contradiction.

I suggested to the dozen leading women school administrators last year that they organize and offer advice and support to the women who want to assume administrative responsibilities.

Recently, the Illinois Women Administrators informed me of their membership one year later — 500 women either in school districts or in local government preparing themselves to help run the schools.

I have counseled this new organization to work closely together with IASB, IASA and IASBO (statewide board and administrator groups).

By the way, the number of women assistant business managers has increased the last few years — the only positive statistics we could find in administration.

The State Board of Education and I commend these local boards, superintendents and business managers who have sought out management talent among women as well as men.

During the 1980s, we will become more conscious of women in record numbers entering new careers and adult vocational fields — engineering, accounting, automotive work — and our school programs, our career education, our counseling and our vocational enrollments will reflect these changes in the work place.

We have lost 200,000 students in five years, the result of smaller family size. What has been done?

Illinois school boards have made painful, deep cuts in the teaching force. We have 8,000 fewer regular teaching positions in the schools and 1,000 fewer supervisory staff — principals, coordinators and specialists.

Boards have closed more than 200 school buildings — a task as difficult in some communities as moving a burial ground.

However, closing an elementary school can save $50,000 a year in overhead costs; closing a large secondary school building can save as much as a half-million dollars a year.

Have we done enough? The loss of elementary school students is two-thirds over. We have only begun to lose senior high school students. Our state projections show that the elementary school decline will be almost over in 1984-85, but that secondary enrollment in many communities will drop until 1990.

We will lose another 200,000 pupils — another 10 percent of the total public school population.

Local school boards must close at least another 150 buildings, and possibly more.

Niles Township High School (East) will be the last large senior high school in Illinois to close, but others will follow throughout the 1980s.

Most school boards still have lead time on high schools and, where possible, the decision should be made four or five years in advance.

We will have as of 1985 only 80 percent of the students we had in 1972 — our high point.

Meanwhile, our fuel bills have soared. Has each district conducted or planned an energy audit? Have we closed or rehabilitated energy-inefficient facilities? Have we turned to solar energy or other long-term solutions?

Transportation expenses remain a high cost item for many school districts.

We are faced with two new demands on our money — the law saying the state can help you define "handicapped" in vehicular conditions, and the proposal not yet enacted which would require transportation for non-public school students.

Even so, dozens of school districts spend twice as much "none" on transportation costs as districts of similar size and geography. Why?

It doesn't make that much difference as to whether the buses are district-owned or under contract. It does make a difference whether a bus can make multiple runs, and school hours are staggered, and all management tools available, including computers, are used to try to reduce the distances or number of runs.

Fuel, tires and the buses themselves now cost too much money for us to fail to economize. We can't afford an open-ended, no-id formula.

Governor James Thompson has called for an efficiency-oriented transportation formula. The General Assembly has asked for more data. The Illinois School Financial Accounting Committee is now helping us examine the variables.

Many school districts will receive more state aid per student if we can reduce the uneconomical, less-than-efficient districts.

The wise use of natural resources is an important lesson for all to learn.

The State Board of Education has begun its sixth year of existence. Two governors have appointed 25 members, of whom 17 now are on the board.

Probably half of them were teachers at one time in their careers. Half of them served on local school boards, two of them on community college boards, and one is a former school superintendent.

Two of them have been former presidents of the Illinois Association of School Boards.

I mention these facts to dramatize the fact that the State Board is aware of local school problems. Most of the members are parents and several are grandparents.

Why have big stakes in the success of local boards?

When they found out how many reports and forms are required of local schools, they directed me to consolidate or eliminate as many as possible. That is why there are 100 fewer forms or surveys this year than in 1975.

As they discovered how controversial some rules and regulations can become, they insisted that the State Board, a lay citizen panel, review and discuss the rules.

That is why they now vote on all new or revised regulations, and why the superintendent thinks at least twice about whether or not new rules are necessary.

That is why they now vote on all new or revised regulations, and why the superintendent thinks at least twice about whether or not new rules are necessary.

When the State Board found out that the corporate personal property tax had to be replaced, they immediately called for a hearing in cooperation with the School Problems Commission.

They encouraged staff to develop the first factual document which explained the extent of the problem and a possible solution, even before the Class Commission began advising the governor.

When the State Board learned that Illinois senators wanted to impose a statewide test on the schools, they suggested a substitute measure calling for two years of local school study and development. That is why we're one of the ten states that haven't mandated a state exam or minimal competency test.

Whatever the problem — nutrition or negotiations, health and immunization, a new look at guidance, counseling, or the principalship — the State Board of Education has urged the state superintendent and staff to work closely with school officials to negotiate conflicts, to tone down our criticism, to emphasize the positive contributions of local boards and professional staff.

No one ever said that a state board of education would solve all of our problems of finance, education or management.

But the board has made the state educational staff subject to open meetings, open hearings and full public discussion of controversies. The Illinois constitution as it now reads encourages state-level decisions to be non-partisan or bi-partisan rather than partisan.

The State Board of Education in the years ahead will continue to be responsive and to react to and most of all help local school officials get the support they need.

Major spending during '80 on Interstate 270

The Illinois Department of Transportation will spend $16 million on construction of I-270 during 1980, according to Dale Klorz, district engineer.

Klorz said Interstate 270 should completely ring the metropolitan area by 1985. At that time, almost $500 million will have been spent on the new Jefferson Barracks Bridge and the 26 miles of highway north to the existing portion of I-270.

At the same meeting, Frank Krig, district engineer for the Kirkwood District, Missouri State Highway Department, said work on the Vandeventer overpass in St. Louis has stopped because of failure of the U.S. Department of Transportation to provide its share of the $15 million costs.

The old target date for completion of the project, 1981, has been scrubbed, and it is uncertain when the overpass complex will be finished.

Krig said a new allocation of tax money to highways made through a Missouri constitutional amendment adopted in November will allow the department to hold steady with inflation until 1986, though it will not provide enough funds for many projects the department feels are necessary.

Sixty-two percent of Americans say they don't worry about their own death as much as they used to, a recent survey showed.

Taxpayer impact plan by O'Neal

Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal, a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate, proposed Thursday the Taxpayer Impact Plan (TIP), designed to allow the individual taxpayer to know the cost of any legislation.

He made the announcement during a tour of Springfield, Peoria and Chicago.

O'Neal said, "Congress should be required to tell each of us what our cost will be for a given program. We already have environmental impact statements, budget impact statements, and other specialized interest statements attached to legislation."

"It is only fair that the cost to the people paying the tab for legislation — namely the individual taxpayer — also be provided."

"One of the most attractive aspects of TIP is how easily it can be implemented. We know what the tax brackets are; we know how many people are within any particular bracket; we know what portion of the total tax collected within any bracket is; and we know what the cost of any legislation is supposed to be. The impact plan could be done on a pocket calculator."

There are three parts to TIP. The first provides the cost per taxpayer for the legislation — the gross cost. The second takes into account the estimated impact for programs whose intentions include possible cost benefits, such as adding taxpayers to the system — the estimated net cost.

The last section would require that the realized cost for a program be given for each fiscal year — the actual net cost.

O'Neal concluded, "It often seems that the system Congress uses to spend our money is beyond control. We all know government spending is significantly contributes to high inflation and is the sole reason for high taxes."

"If Congress was forced to tell us what its follies were costing each of us individually, we could slow down the spending."

Congress sense approaches to our problems certainly would be an improvement over the way the Washington elitists attack situations."

FACT: A CHIMNEY FIRE DOES NOT LEAVE A CHIMNEY CLEAN!

Chimney fires happen only when there is enough creosote and soot buildup to fuel a fire. Once a chimney fire is over, the ash left from the chimney fire may have expanded to take up more of the flue area than the creosote and soot did originally. Ash often falls to the chimney base blocking the area. If you have had a chimney fire, take the time to have your chimney cleaned and inspected before a second fire occurs.

Arrests at Kirkpatrick

Jeffrey A. Jobe, 19, of 1404 Kirkpatrick Homes, was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest in state complaints signed by police after a disturbance in Kirkpatrick Homes at 11:10 p.m. Friday.

Police responded to a report of a fight and found a large crowd of people outside, they reported.

When Patrolman J.W. Apperson got out of his squad car, Jobe allegedly challenged him to fight several times while the crowd grew, Apperson said.

Additional officers arrived to help and force was used to subdue Jobe and put him in the car, it was reported. Officers allegedly Jobe kicked, at the squad car window and yelled obscenities and threats at police.

At the police station, he again allegedly resisted officers and force was used to remove his property and put him in a jail cell, police said. His bond was set at $200.

A second disturbance was reported in the 3200 block of Kirkpatrick Homes about 2 a.m. Saturday, and officers ordered James M. Shumate, 24, of 3204 Kirkpatrick Homes to leave a woman alone. He complied and left, police said.

At 2:15 a.m., the officers were again called to the same woman alleged Shumate beat her a second time. He was arrested, charged with disorderly conduct, and was released on $37 cash bond at 3:25 a.m. Saturday.

2 arrested in Venice

Two young men were arrested after they allegedly displayed Venice officers at Weaver and Douglas streets at 12:15 a.m. Saturday and resisted arrest.

Officers alleged seeing a car parked by a fire hydrant at that location and asked the driver, Donald Woolfolk Jr., 24, of 1006 Market St., Venice, to move the car.

He allegedly became belligerent toward the officers and used profanity. When told he was under arrest, he allegedly refused to get in the squad car and force was used to arrest him. During the arrest, Michael Terrell, 22, of 1100 Calumet St., Venice, got into the driver's seat of Woolfolk's auto and drove away despite officers from police that he not move the 2nd charge of drunken driving

Omar D. Smith, 66, of 2313 E. 23rd St., was arrested at 3:50 a.m. today and was charged with driving while intoxicated and driving while his driver's license was revoked.

Police reported there were two 1977 warrants on file for his arrest on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol and careless driving.

An officer this morning alleged Smith's auto was driving "all over the road," and stopped it, finding the driver apparently intoxicated. Smith allegedly refused to take a breath test and was lodged in jail.

Loot vehicles

Three vehicles parked near the apartments on Harvey Place were broken into Friday night or early Saturday and there were indications other cars had been tampered with, but the owners did not report the incidents to police.

Donald Williams, 2707 Harvey Place, reported a wing window of his truck had been pried open and the glove compartment and two storage compartments had been ransacked. The only thing known missing is a set of keys, including keys to Williams' car.

At 3:05 a.m. Saturday, Williams heard the burglar alarm of his car sounding. Indications were that the car key, taken from the truck, was used to unlock the car door without turning off the burglar alarm. The alarm then frightened the would-be thief away, police believe.

John Halwachs, 2723 Harvey Place, reported a wing vent of his car was broken and the carport and eight bowling balls and five bags for bowling balls were taken. The value was estimated at $600.

WOMAN IS HURT

New approach to teaching of writing skills

A second semester has been approved for a pilot program of Granite City High School South entitled "Project Write-On."

Under the experimental program started this fall, a South English teacher, Sandra Hughes, teaches writing techniques to fourth and sixth grade students at Maryville School.

Mrs. Mena Musterman, gifted program coordinator, has concluded that "the students are thoroughly enjoying the experience and their definite improvement in writing skills is clearly evidenced in the work."

"Principal Jack Mulach has related comments parents made on how the instruction has positively transferred to out-of-school experiences."

"Both of the Maryville classroom teachers state, that they, themselves, are learning improved teaching techniques, and can see their students are making a positive transfer to other subject areas."

"To capitalize on this pilot study, we must project plans for next year, with the objective to develop a program that will be effective and have a long-range effect upon the instruction of writing skills."

"It is expected that Miss Helen Kuestler and Mrs. Hughes will have formulated a course of study that can serve as a resource to others. Other considerations include using Mrs. Hughes in an in-service capacity—perhaps rotating visits to several schools."

The idea was originated by Miss Kuestler, South English department head.

'Free' lift station offered if funds are found to staff it

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

The federal government will pay for constructing a $13 million lift station at the end of the Blue Waters Ditch near Cahokia and the state will supply about $1.5 million for acquisition of rights-of-way and easements, if the Metro-East Sanitary District will agree to participate in the maintenance and operation of the lift station, sanitary district trustees were told Thursday.

Representatives of Cahokia, Centerville and other townships drained by the Blue Waters Ditch were on hand at Thursday's sanitary district board meeting in Washington Park, along with representatives of the Illinois Division of Water Resources, U.S. Corps of Engineers and others.

Officials of areas which rely on the Blue Waters Ditch for drainage indicated they will participate financially in the project and urged the sanitary district to agree to the proposal.

Funds now offered for the project, including $695,000 the state already has appropriated and another $795,000 included in next year's state budget, could be lost if agreement is not reached soon.

The sanitary district trustees agreed to allow state officials to draft contracts specifying the financial participation of the cities and townships in the operation and maintenance expenses.

Those contracts will be reviewed by the sanitary district and its attorneys before any actions are taken, it was indicated.

Previously, the sanitary district board declined to become the sponsoring agency for the lift station, due to the expenses involved. It was indicated that the district's severe financial difficulties are expected to continue for several years.

In an effort to ease the cash-flow problems, the board voted at a meeting Wednesday to write letters to three businesses in Cahokia which have large outstanding sewage treatment bills, notifying them that legal action will be initiated against them unless the bills are paid immediately.

Keith McMillan, of Madison was hired to fill a vacancy at the district's sewage treatment plant. The board also agreed to have the office custodian, who had been laid off in a cost-cutting move, return to work, since the office is badly in need of cleaning.

The board agreed to open negotiations with Operating Engineers Local 2 on Friday, Jan. 11.

Charge 3 in theft

Three St. Louis men arrested Thursday morning after a battery was stolen from a vehicle in the 2400-block of Edison Avenue were charged with theft by Granite City police Thursday afternoon.

Charged are Danny D. Campbell, 18, Scott L. Ayers, 18, and Jesus D. Corona, 27. Corona also was sought by officials of the U.S. Immigration Service and was released to their agents.

It is alleged the three St. Louis men removed a battery from a 1966 Oldsmobile and placed the battery in Corona's Chevrolet. A crescent wrench and a pair of pliers were found in the clothing of the two younger men, police alleged.

Bond was set at $200 each for Campbell and Ayers.

Supplemental and Medicare insurance

(Office of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal)

This is the final article on the most asked questions to the Illinois Department of Insurance concerning supplemental and Medicare insurance.

Q. What shall I do if I have a claim under my supplemental policy?

A. File all claims promptly. With each claim payment from Medicare, you will receive an "Explanation of Benefits." If the insurance company requests it in order to determine its share of the cost, make a copy of it to send to the insurance company.

When you send in a claim, write down the date you mail it. Keep copies of any information you have concerning services received, the dates of services and the person or persons who provided the services.

Many large clinics will provide a special billing to be submitted to your insurance company.

Make sure that you are provided with an itemized bill. This bill should include the date, type of service, and the amount charged for each service performed.

There must also be a diagnosis, or "symptoms and complaints," for each item of expense.

You can speed up claim handling if you make sure any required claim form is completed properly, that itemized bills are attached, and that copies of the Medicare Explanation of Benefits forms are submitted, if required.

Q. Are benefits payable by Medicare or private companies if I am receiving medical care?

A. No. Benefits are not payable for custodial care. Care is considered custodial if it is primarily for the purpose of meeting personal needs and could be provided by persons without professional skills.

Q. Should I purchase additional policies that supplement Medicare?

A. Yes. Policies that "load" with several policies that supplement Medicare. Duplicating coverage is unnecessary.

If you currently have more than one supplemental policy or you are approached to buy additional policies, check with members of your family or someone in your community who can advise you if additional coverage is necessary or desirable before making a purchase.

Q. What does the term "reasonable and necessary" mean in determining if a level of care is covered by Medicare?

A. Before Medicare will provide benefits for the care you receive, the treatment must be medically necessary.

For example, if you stay in a hospital or skilled nursing facility longer than you need, Medicare payments will cease when further in-patient care is no longer reasonable and necessary.

Q. If questions or problems arise concerning Medicare, who should I contact?

A. You should contact the Medicare carrier or any Social Security office.

Q. What if I pay by cash?

A. Always make sure you get a receipt that has the insurance company's name boldly printed and signed legibly by the agent.

Letter writing week planned

The Postal Service will sponsor a National Letter Writing Week from Feb. 24 through March 1.

The objectives are to focus attention on the power of the written word and letter writing to share opinions, preserve memories, lift spirits and link people—and to encourage more personal correspondence.

There will be special school activities, highlighted by the publication of a new 64-page book, "All About Letters," prepared by the Postal Service with the cooperation of the National Council of Teachers of English.

The book is designed for students in grades six through twelve and will be distributed by the Council.

During National Letter Writing Week, many post offices will offer to students special guided tours of their facilities and, in some cases, will send postal representatives to offer to students one-hour formats. He will offer a look into other worlds of the teenager, and set out the steps to personal growth.

Other sessions will include Don Holtcamp, a word detective who challenges children to find new ones; Dennis Butts, a Belleville counselor who knows what parents should have asked in the parent-teacher conference but didn't; Susan Nall, a preschool education expert who can explain what "special programs" for special kids' means.

Parents can also learn how to pack a brown bag lunch with nutrition, what's new and working in reading programs, how to start a local RIF (Reading is Fundamental) program of giveaway books, what the federal Title I program is and how it works, how to

Conference for parents

A conference for parents with children in school will be held Saturday, Jan. 12, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The open meeting is planned by parents for parents to find some of the answers and discuss all of the questions about children and education and school, according to coordinator Troy Cole, a state education consultant.

The Rev. Bill Little, KMOX radio, will lead two of the 33 individual sessions scheduled in three one-hour formats. He will offer a look into other worlds of the teenager, and set out the steps to personal growth.

Other sessions will include Don Holtcamp, a word detective who challenges children to find new ones; Dennis Butts, a Belleville counselor who knows what parents should have asked in the parent-teacher conference but didn't; Susan Nall, a preschool education expert who can explain what "special programs" for special kids' means.

Instruction for foremen

A program of weekly classes to improve skills of working foremen will begin its second year this month with classes at job sites in Belleville, Alton, Granite City and Edwardsville.

The classes, a joint venture by the Center for Management Studies of SIUE and host industries, will be repeated daily or weekly to allow supervisors to attend each class despite changing work schedules.

James F. Miller, SIUE assistant professor of business and Center director, said the new certificate program was developed at industries' request and was highly successful the first year.

The initial graduates, supervisors at Laclede Steel Co. in Alton, received certificates in November after completing eight six-week courses selected from the 10 offered in the Supervisory Management program.

New classes in effective communication will be held in Alton at Laclede on Tuesdays, beginning Jan. 8, at 3:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Classes in supervision will be held Wednesdays at Scott Air Force Base near Belleville at 6:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 9, and on Mondays at the SIUE campus beginning tonight at 6 p.m.

The series will continue at each site with sessions in team building, work flow scheduling, establishing objectives, performance appraisal and training.

Report writing, special employee problems and work methods analysis.

Granite City police are seeking two teens, ages about 16 or 17, in a tan pickup truck, who beat a juvenile boy in the 2500 block of Sheridan Avenue about 6 p.m. Thursday. The victim said he was walking when the truck stopped near him and the two teens got out. One struck his mouth with a fist and pushed him across the street and onto the ground where the second teen kicked him, the juvenile told police. They then left the scene. Gym outlook bright

The Illinois Board of Higher Education on Thursday afternoon voiced full backing for a $9,700,000 appropriation for an SIUE multi-purpose building. The structure is to include a gymnasium at which varsity interscholastic sports events would be held.

SIUE is the only four-year university in Illinois without a permanent gymnasium. Its seven-year-old "bubble gym" is nearing the end of its life expectancy.

A total of $17 million in capital improvements was listed for Southern Illinois University's local and Carbondale campuses.

Meeting in Chicago, the Board of Higher Education announced a multi-billion-dollar recommended appropriation for 1980-81 fiscal year operating costs and construction projects at Illinois public colleges and universities.

The proposals are subject to approval by the Illinois General Assembly and Governor.

About $831,000 for detailed planning was approved for the gymnasium building last year. Earl Lazerson, SIUE acting president, expressed pleasure at the recommendation and said construction could begin as soon as the late summer of 1980.

The $5,710,000 listed for SIUC includes $2,350,000 to remodel the women's gymnasium. A total of $11,500,000 is recommended for SIUE.

Original requests from the two campuses amounted to $8,179,000 and $13,740,000.

Dr. Kenneth Shaw, SIU chancellor, praised the capital funding but said he thinks the IBHE "can do better" than its plan for an eight percent faculty and staff pay raise plus a one percent fringe benefit adjustment.

He said he may ask the board to recommend an 11 percent increase when it meets tomorrow.

Also recommended by the IBHE were statewide tuition increases that would amount to $48 per academic year for SIU undergraduate and graduate students.

Maximum state scholarship aid for students attending private schools would climb $200 to $2,000 a semester.

did not realize immediately he had been shot and thought his face was hurt from the flash of a weapon used to shoot blanks.

A passing motorist notified Illinois State Police by CB radio that the driver

William R. Barrett, zone supervisor for the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation, said today he understands that Gilbertson asked that his wife be notified of the incident and that she drove him to the Granite City hospital when it was realized he was more seriously hurt than first believed. The law enforcement officer said the weapon used in the robbery was a small caliber handgun.

Bubblemasters recover vehicle

Despite an air temperature of 28 degrees, members of the Bubblemasters Underwater Recovery Team (BURT) searched the Edwardsville shale pit Saturday and recovered an $11,000 International Scout from about 25 feet of water.

At the request of the Edwardsville Police Department, the local divers donned wet suits and other gear to search for the brand new vehicle that had been stolen from an Edwardsville dealer's lot.

Water temperature was 38 degrees and there was no visibility, Dee Adams of the BURT volunteers said today. The vehicle was found at 4 p.m. Saturday by diver Pat Tanner about 65 feet from the bank.

It took three hours to remove the scout from the water, using two wrecker trucks, Adams said.

In addition to Tanner and Adams, other BURT volunteers involved in the recovery were Team Captain Bruce Evans, Vance Weiss, Bill Horton, Ed Duffin, Kent Speers, Phil Throm, Mike Passalich and Glen Gates, newly installed president of the Bubblemasters.

Business cooperative education offered here

In response to questions from parents regarding business cooperative education programs at GCHS North, Norman S. Owca, business education department head, has noted that cooperative education combines classroom study with paid work experience during a student's senior year.

"Our business department and local employers cooperate to plan a business educational program for students interested in office or retailing careers," he related.

"Students may work half-days for one or two semesters and take regular courses for the other half of the day. This work experience affords several career advantages.

"For instance, if the student has a clear job in mind, this can provide valuable work experience; or if the student is unclear about a career goal, work experience can be varied to give a first-hand basis for making choices."

"Other advantages of this type of program include the opportunity for students to earn money while learning, make valuable contacts that could assist them when seeking full-time employment, and develop skills to qualify for part-time employment while attending college."

If parents are interested in this program, Owca encourages them to call North, 931-0000, so an appointment can be set up to "personalize your child's program."

Gun fired at auto; six held by police

Four men and two women were taken into custody Saturday evening for investigation of two incidents involving guns, including an incident in which three shots were fired at a father and daughter in a car on Amos Avenue near Namekiki Road.

At 8:05 p.m. Saturday, police were told that two men in a late-model auto fired three shots at the car of Hershal Thrasher of the 2600 block of West 26th Street, striking the car's trunk and roof above Thrasher's daughter, who was a passenger.

The third shot missed Thrasher's car and struck the car of Charles Bosworth Sr., Daisy Court, Arlington Heights, parked at the Namekiki Road onto Namekiki Road and Amos Avenue, putting a hole in the driver's door.

Thrasher's car from which the shots were fired, described as a silver or light-colored late-model vehicle, then left the scene. One of the men in the car was described as having a beard and mustache and wearing a red baseball cap.

Thrasher said the silver-colored auto had followed his car from Pontoon and Maryville Road onto Namekiki Road and when Thrasher turned left onto Amos Avenue, the vehicle drove beside Thrasher's auto and the shots were fired.

At 9:30 p.m. Saturday, officers were called to Keith's Lounge, 2701 Washington Ave., on a report a man had a gun.

Police searched one man, but did not find a gun. They talked to five people who had been seated at a tavern with a man in an attempt to locate the gun and one officer alleged seeing another young man reach under the table and place a .357 magnum pistol in a woman's purse.

The five were ordered outside, where they were searched and placed in a squad car. Police returned to the tavern and alleged finding one gun in the other woman's purse and another on a chair seat at the table. By this morning, police had released all of those involved, except the one in the hospital. It was noted they were released pending further investigation and consultation with the Madison County state's attorney's office on possible charges.

Police reported one of the men arrested has a beard and mustache and fits the description of one of the men involved in the Amos Avenue shooting case and one of the women arrested at the tavern was wearing a red baseball cap.

Due to the similarities, investigators plan to use ballistics tests to compare the slugs removed from Thrasher's and Bosworth's autos with the three guns seized at the tavern, a spokesman said Sunday.

He noted the .357 magnum was loaded with three bullets when police seized it. Two others were piercing bullets and the other was a super velocity bullet.

The names of the six being held are not being announced, pending additional investigation and the possible filing of criminal charges. At least four of them have prior criminal records, it was noted.

The 33-year-old man who was questioned first was found to have bled on his trousers's leg from a cut or stab wound. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Others who had been sitting with him said he had been playing with a knife and had stabbed himself. He was admitted to the medical center and ordered held for police.

Lung rehabilitation service planned here

Tuberculosis is no longer a threat in this country, as it can be controlled and even cured with medication and treatment, according to Mike Range, director of Cardiopulmonary Services at the St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Range spoke Thursday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Granite City Optimist Club.

According to Range, there are three major diseases of the lungs: emphysema, limiting the capacity of the lungs; chronic bronchitis, an inflammation of the membrane lining the bronchial tubes; and asthma, a severe and often allergic disorder of respiration characterized by wheezing, difficulty in breathing and a feeling of constriction in the chest.

Range said plans have been made to establish a long-term rehabilitation service for persons with such problems as emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

The program is designed to educate persons affected and to place equipment into the homes. He noted that everything needed to begin the service is almost ready.

The hospital ladies' auxiliary has plans to buy equipment and the hospital is currently seeking a qualified medical director for the program.

There are many pulmonary cripples, who can't walk a block without sitting down to rest. These persons could be helped with a lot of hard work and training," Range emphasized.

The Granite City Optimist Club membership drive has been going for four weeks and the "A" team, led by Attorney Alan Walker, has won the contest four straight weeks.

QUAD-CITY AREA CLOWNS.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center patients had a little extra cheer last week when members of the Holy Fools, a local Christian clown organization, visited to show off their antics and funny gestures.

Carrie Wirtz, daughter of Marsha Wirtz, an SEMC associate (employee), smiled for two of the "Fools" as they showed her their pet possums (lower picture).

Meanwhile, "Derrick Kinerd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Kinerd, decided to get right into the act with Holy Fools (upper photo).

Both children were patients on the Pediatrics floor of SEMC. The Holy Fools began visiting local nursing homes and hospitals after learning their trade in a workshop. The visits provide entertainment and cheer to patients and act as a "final exam" for the clowns.

The Holy Fools is a non-denominational Christian clown group made up of Quad-City area youths and youths from the St. Louis area.

Three Warriors named Parade All-America

Special to the Press-Record
NEW YORK — Three players from state soccer champion Granite City South were named here Sunday to the Parade Magazine All-American prep soccer team.

RANDY DEROUSSE

David Fernandez and senior defender Randy DeRousse were the South players picked.

South, which won its fourth straight Illinois State Championship last November, had more players named than any other high school in the nation. In fact, it is the first time in history three players from the same school have been named to the elite squad.

In all, eight St. Louis area players were mentioned on the team. Besides the trio of South Warriors, others from St. Louis named were midfielder Daryl Dorian from CBC, midfielder Leo Bourneuf of Missouri state champion Rosary, midfielder Keith Meyer of St. Mary High defender Dan King of St. Thomas-Aquinas and defender

GRANITE CITY (ILL.) PRESS-RECORD, Monday, Jan. 7, 1980—9
Greg Fleher of Parkway Central. Both King and Fleher were named as the nation's best at their respective positions.

The Parade Magazine All-American team is selected by a board made up of high school and college soccer coaches, coaches from the United States Soccer Federation and scouts from the North American Soccer League (NASL) and the American Soccer League. In all, 41 players from 19 states were named to the team.

For South's DeRousse, being named to the team is just another honor in a long line that have already come his way. Last month, he was drafted by the New York Cosmos of the NASL in the first round. He was the ninth player picked overall in the draft and is given an excellent chance at playing for the club should he decide to sign a contract.

DeRousse is also a member of the American Junior Olympic team. He just flew from Los Angeles to Tampa, Fla. where he will compete with a team from West Germany. Saturday, the Americans lost 4-2 to the Germans in California.

South's DeRousse sign with the Cosmos, he would still be allowed to play for the amateur team. He links a special amateur contract.

The accolades given DeRousse this season could well be equaled or bettered next season after the talented Fernandez finished his senior season at South. One of the few underclassmen named to the All-American team, professional scouts have been drooling over him since he first broke on the scene as a freshman sensation, helping lead South to what was then its second straight state championship.

Injured most of the past season, Fernandez nonetheless was a key ingredient to his teams' success.

Mater Dei gains revenge

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — No team likes to lose, that's only natural. But when the Breese Maier Dei basketball team loses — especially at home — it takes it twice as hard.

Mater Dei's Knights gained a measure of revenge on Granite City North here Saturday night by beating the Steelers 69-55 in a game played at Granite South Gymnasium.

Mater Dei had lost to North in Breese a little over a week earlier in the semifinals of the Mater Dei Christmas Tournament. But Saturday night, it was the Knights who were in charge. But it took a hot hand by Mater Dei's Jerry Hennrichs and a "fuel crisis" of sorts on the part of the Steelers.

"We just flat ran out of gas," said North coach Bill Ohlendorf. "Just about in the middle of the third quarter. We were playing right with them up until then."

In fact, the Steelers had a two point lead going into the locker room at halftime, 34-32. But some cold shooting, foul problems and a nifty defensive job by Mater Dei on North ace Dennis Page allowed the Knights to take the lead early in the third quarter.

Page scored 32 points Friday night in a Gateway East Conference loss at Belleville. Althoff (see related story), but the Breese defense put the clamps on the 6-11 forward guard in the second half, holding him scoreless. He had tallied 12 points in the first half.

The big gun for Mater Dei was Hennrichs, a 6-3 senior forward. After scoring 26 points Friday night in Collinsville in his team's 65-37 near-upset loss to the Kahoks, he again had the hot hand against the Steelers. "We shut him off fairly well in our first game against them," said Ohlendorf. "But we couldn't hold him tonight. No matter what we did."

North was led by senior forward Mike Robertson's 16 points.

Cahokia deals South loss

By ROB REHG
for the Press-Record
CAHOKIA — It seemed appropriate when Cahokia's Jon Collins let go of a shot at the buzzer ending the first half that missed the basket by a foot and sailed out of bounds.

The Comanches had shot a dismal 27 percent from the floor the first half and were trailing Granite City South's Warriors 25-18. But Comanche coach Ken McBride wasn't worried.

"At the beginning of the season I told our guys there would be nights when we wouldn't shoot well," McBride said. "Defense is the name of the game. Twenty-seven percent is pretty bad, but South had scored only 25 points. I was happy with our defense and told the guys to go out and just keep putting the shots up. Sooner or later they'd start falling."

And sure enough, that is just what happened. Cahokia outscored South 16-4 in the third quarter and went on to win 56-49.

The Comanches managed to pull off the comeback victory and lift their record to 8-3 by shooting a "blazing" percent from the floor in the second half.

"That's nothing to set the world on fire," McBride said of his team's second half shooting performance, "but it was good enough to win."

It sure was. Of course, Cahokia's winning had a lot to do with the way South shot the ball the second half. After hitting a respectable 46 percent of their shots in the first half, the Warriors came out cold in the third quarter. Cold as in a freezing, 27 percent cold.

"It doesn't take a brilliant mind to see what beat us tonight," South coach Don Deterding said. "The third quarter beat us. You can't score six points in a quarter and win games." The Warriors tried anyway.

HOW MUCH TIME? Granite North wrestler Glenn Thompson takes a look at the clock Friday night during his bout against McCluer North's Mike Lanzone. North easily defeated McCluer in the meet at the GCHS South Gymnasium annex.

By DOUG IRVIN

PEORIA — Both wrestling teams from Granite City traveled to Peoria, Ill., Saturday afternoon to take part in a double dual meet against Peoria-Richwoods and Pekin. North and South did not wrestle each other in the meet.

The South Warriors won both of their meets by beating Pekin 37-18 and Richwoods 46-15. The Steelers of North ran all over Pekin 50-3, but tied Richwoods at 28 apiece. With these weekend results, won-loss records of the Granite teams are: South, 13-0; and North, 10-1-1.

Any good things were not the only outcome of Saturday's encounter. The Warriors' 105-pounder, senior Rick Presswood was hurt in his bout with Peoria-Richwoods and will be out for the remainder of this season. Presswood suffered a complete dislocation of his left elbow.

SOUTH 37, PEKIN 18
Chris Cottrell, at 98 pounds, scored a forfeit to lead things off for the Warriors. Greg Garland was the next Warrior to win, Randy Roberts 9-0, 12-1. At 126, Rodney Lupardus decided John Innis, 13-9.

Phil Beljanski pinned Joe Evans at 132-24 mark of the 132 pound bout. At 145, Dean Perkins, decided Sam Staker, 16-1; Dru Clement, Warriors never made a run of the Comanches is the remaining two-and-a-half minutes. Brawly kept them at bay by drawing fouls and going 6-6 at the line to score 10 points in the final period.

Area athletes shine in 1979

Specialto

BLOOMINGTON — The year 1979 was a very successful one for the Illinois High School Association. More specifically, it was successful for many Granite City area high schools. This story is the second part of a two-part series on highlights around the state in Illinois prep sports last year.

BOYS TRACK
Chicago (Luther South), paced by high hurdle champion Mark Kacard and triple jump winner Mike Conley, took a lead in the boys' mile Evanston (Twp.), paced by triple winner Bob McGee, won the Class AA title. It was the last meet under the English system.

Luther South scored 42 points to outdistance runnerup Gibson City (34). Evanston (Twp.) snapped the winning streak of East St. Louis (St.) at four by a point margin of 51 to 44.5. The two-day meet was completed the weekend of May 25-26.

McGee won the 100-yard dash in .09:51, the 120-yard high hurdles in :13:87 and the 330-yard low hurdles (after a restart) in :36:94, on a day when rain and wind took its toll on what could have been some of the nation's greatest performances last school year.

BOYS TENNIS
Hinsdale (Central) won its eighth straight team title scoring 24.5 points to runnerup Deerfield's 17.5 the weekend of May 24-26, 1979. Coach Jay Kramer's two doubles teams were outstanding, meeting in the title match. The tandem of seniors, Bill Alex and Joe Leininger beat the season's six seniors Adam Piolet and Mike Iverson, 7-6, 6-3, for the crown. In singles, Roh Kowal of Naperville (North) beat Tracy Fanelon, 7-6, 6-2. Fanelon was a junior, Kowal a senior.

CLASS A BOYS BASEBALL
No-hitters by Jim Scott of Normal (Univ.) and Bill Wingate of New Lenox (Providence) in the quarterfinals set the stage for a sizzling State Final Tournament June 5-6, 1979.

Scott walked one and struck out 11 in the opening quarterfinal game to lead his Pioneers (14-0) over Cobden. Cobden fanned nine, closed the quarterfinal round with his gem in a 3-0 decision over Henry.

Meanwhile, New Athens, paced by pitcher Scott Poy who fanned six in a hitting a year earlier in leading the Yellow Jackets to the runnerup spot in 1978, p. 4 away Varden, 11-1 in six innings. Putting up a rematch of the 1978 title game between New Athens and Aurora (West) right-hander Dave Peterson each struck out 13 in their quarterfinal duel at Limesboro, where Mt. Carmel took a 3-0 decision. Proviso West scored three runs in the top of the ninth to beat Limesboro, 5-2.

Fischer relieved Todd Painter in the seventh inning of the semifinals to preserve a 2-0 win over Palatine (Fremd), while Proviso West nipped Oak Forest, 3-2, in the semifinals. Fischer went the distance in the title game and in 15 innings he gave up 15 hits, walked nine and fanned 20. Coach Larry Lockhart's Proviso West team finished with a 24-5 record, and Mt. Carmel (which dropped to Class A status in September of 1979) closed at 17-2.

GIRLS SOFTBALL
Chris Wagner's leadoff inside-the-park home run in the bottom of the eighth inning gave Cahokia a 2-1 win over Loves Park (Harlem), and the Comanches their second title in three years on June 8, 1979.

In a game pitting two of the state's best pitchers — Lisa Clutter of Cahokia and Yolanda Block of Harlem — Wagner's homer was the only hit given up by Block, who fashioned a two-hitter in the semifinals and a 4-2 win over LaGrange (Lyons) and a one-hitter in her team's 7-1 win over Downers Grove (North) in the quarterfinals. Clutter gave up only two hits in the title game, three in a 4-1 semifinal win over Casey and five in her team's 2-1 win over Peoria (Academy of Our Lady) in the quarterfinals.

Cougars even record

EDWARDSVILLE — The Cougar cagers of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, with a 7-7 record, appear poised to make a run on posting their first winning season in three years. The 7-7 record itself is respectable. But it is considered that all but one of the 14 games were played on the "cruel" road.

Their last victim was the Kangaroos of the University of Missouri, Kansas City, who fell, 104-83, after battling the Cougars on an even basis the first half, 42-41, in SIUE's first home game, Thursday night.

In fact, the Cougar cagers of Coach Jim Dudley had trouble getting their act together that first 20 minutes against UMKC as the Kangaroos vaulted out in front by a 6-0 score.

A large and enthusiastic home crowd saw the Cougars rebound the second half as their 6'8" senior center and captain, Bill Branz, shook off the two enemy players who had shadowed him effectively in the game's first 20 minutes, and poured in 20 of his game-high 26 points in the second half.

His rebounds, too, were the tops for the game and maintained his per-game average for the season at a 12.9 clip. Branz also led the Cougar point-makers with a per-game average of 15.9. Four other Cougars are averaging 10 or more points a game: Jerome (Baby Jay) Nelson, 12.0; Greg Payne, 12.3; Tim Smith, 12.8; and Tom Schmidt, 9.9.

One of the brightest developments in the SIUE basketball picture is the standout play of the Cougars' first-year players: Ted Smith, 6'9", Dennis Funtner, Kent Taylor and Scott Kabbes. All but Taylor are from that hot bed of Illinois high school basketball, Effingham and Toulon, Taylor prepped at Fairfield.

Smith has won a starter's berth, and Kabbes is logging a lot of playing time. Kabbes, who starred for St. Anthony High in Effingham, is on one of the hottest American collegiate basketball; he has made 38 straight.

Kabbes, who is cool as ice under fire, has a long way to

"They did a good job stopping Chiarelli and Collins tonight, but they couldn't stop Egner and Bravely," McBride said. "We have too many giving up and putting the ball in not to score enough to win."

Thanks for the interest

Sports Editor:

Thanks for having, what I believe is a genuine interest in girls' sports. I'm very flattered that you chose to write the article about me and my involvement with sports. It is articles such as that one, and also the one on Robin Detering in the same issue (Dec. 20) that lead to the betterment of the sports program. These kinds of features promote interest in girls' sports and perhaps make the public curious enough to attend the games. There are many others involved in girls' athletics who are worthy of recognition. I believe, through the excellent coverage the Press-Record provides, these girls will also receive the praise they deserve.

Thanks again for your enthusiasm.

In the end, it was not only a question of running out of gas, but of beginning the trip with players who just weren't tall enough. Even though North has defeated several clubs much taller than itself this season, it has taken a near-perfect effort to do it. The fouls that usually come with a shorter player trying to get the ball from a taller one finally caught up with the Steelers Saturday.

Six-two center Greg Faulkner fouled out of the game with 3:48 remaining after going head-to-head with Mater Dei's 6'7" center Michaels all game long.

Briarcliff burglaries continuing

A rash of burglaries recently on Briarcliff Drive continued Thursday and two young men narrowly escaped capture at 1:35 a.m. Friday.

Thursday, victims reported two autos and two garages had been broken into on Briarcliff Drive. Wilbur Warnock reported an opera window of his car was broken and a $225 CB radio, a $94 radar detector, two pillows worth $12 each and an $18 lap robe were stolen. There was extensive damage to the car's dashboard.

Robert Spaulding of the same address reported a window of his car had been broken and a $200 CB was stolen from under the dashboard. Also taken was a $20 thermal blanket. The glove compartment was ransacked.

Richard Hensley, 7, Briarcliff Drive, reported a padlock hasp had been pried from a door to his garage and hand tools valued at about $800 were stolen.

C.H. Pattberg, 6 Briarcliff Drive, also reported a door to his garage had been pried open, but nothing was known missing.

At 1:35 a.m. Friday, police received a report of a prowler at Briarcliff and Briarhaven drives and while they were searching the area, a man reported he had just chased away from his neighbor's truck two young men who looked as though they were attempting to break into the truck.

The man said he looked out a window and saw the two looking in the truck. He went outside and confronted them, but they ran before he could grab them. They ran across railroad tracks toward the end of Wilson Park Lane.

Both were tall, the witness said. One had long blond hair and the other wore a stocking cap.

YOUNG MAN ARRESTED

Randy P. Ealy, 20, Springfield, Ill., was arrested at 2804 Idaho Ave. at 6:30 p.m. Sunday after police were told he may be wanted elsewhere in the state. A teletype check indicated he is being sought by Coles County authorities for alleged burglary, forgery, criminal damage to property, violation of his bail bond and violation of probation. His bond was set at $2,000 and he was held for Coles County authorities.

AUTO IS LOOTED

Items valued at about $400 were stolen from the car of Charles Afters, 4106 Maryville Road, parked at his home between 3 a.m. and 2:55 p.m. Sunday. A vent window was broken to gain entry. Taken were three socket wrench sets, a jack, jumper cables, a hunting knife, bullets and shotgun shells, a case of beer, 10 record albums, motor oil and other items.

TOOLS STOLEN

Bill Grant, 4114 Kaseberg Lane, Pontoon Beach, discovered Thursday that $766 worth of tools and equipment were taken from his truck parked at his residence.

Arrest of juveniles solves 5 theft cases

Madison police say they have solved five burglary and theft cases with the arrests of two Madison boys, ages 13 and 14, at 10:55 a.m. Saturday.

The boys allegedly ran from a storage shed at the rear of the home of Howard Vallow, 1712 Second St., Madison, and were recognized. A screwdriver had been used to pry a metal wall of the shed open and a hedge trimmer inside had been moved.

The boys were taken into custody at Eighth and State streets and allegedly confessed to the incident, as well as four prior incidents.

They said they took nothing from a garage in the 1500 block of Seventh Street, which they entered earlier Saturday, but did take a car battery from a rear porch at 1540 Seventh Street, which they sold to a junk yard for $2.75, police said.

They also allegedly admitted two previous garage burglaries, one in which nothing was taken, but one at 1712 Second St., in which hand and power tools were taken, officer reported.

They alleged the boys told them they sold the power saw to a man living in the 1700 block of Market Street and the hand tools to a man living in the 700 block of State Street. Police recovered the power saw from the man who purchased it.

Winter emerges with snow, cold, damage by wind

Winter weather moved into the Quad-City area this weekend with the first snow of the year Saturday; it melted that evening.

Cooler weather Sunday morning left small patches of ice on roads and sidewalks, but no major accidents were reported as a result of ice.

Winds accompanied a cold front which passed through the area during Sunday evening and night, dropping the temperature to 17 above and the wind-chill index at one point to 19 below zero.

The gusting winds caused some damage, including breaking the front window at the Labor Temple, 2014 State St., about 12:10 a.m. today.

Ethnic recipes wanted by Rotary

With the 75th anniversary of Rotary International on Saturday, Feb. 23, the Rotary Club of Waterloo, Ontario, Canada, is planning to publish a cookbook.

M.V. Rotary President Jack Lee said, "I think with the many fine ethnic cooks in our area we should have a recipe or two in the book."

"I would like to invite any Quad-Cityans with a favorite recipe to send it to me at P.O. Box 1, Madison, Ill., 62609 right away."

"I can't make any promises that the recipe submitted will be used, but I feel there is a good chance that some of our Eastern European ones just may be," Lee said.

The M.V. Rotary president emphasized the need to have the various recipes no later than Monday, Jan. 14, in order for him to mail them to the Canadian Rotarians.

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville championship College Bowl Team, called "The Mavericks," is preparing for regional competition at St. Mary's College in South Bend, Ind., Feb. 8-10. The Mavericks will host SIU at Carbondale in an inter-collegiate meet Monday evening, Jan. 28, in the local University Center. Members of the team are, from the left, seated: Karen Ciskowski of Florissant, Terri Miller of St. Louis and Glenn Maaks of Edwardsville; standing: Brad Jines of Canton and Bob Grass of Edwardsville.

Rehearsals by chorus

The Community Choral Society at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will begin winter quarter rehearsals Tuesday, Jan. 8, according to William Tarwater, chairman of the department of music.

Rehearsals are scheduled from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. in Room 1402 of Peck Classroom Building on campus. Directing the group in the absence of Leonard Van Camp, who is on sabbatical leave during the winter and spring quarters, will be Kevin M. Kowitz. Kowitz is the choral director at Normandy Senior High School in St. Louis and has performed with various church choirs and as a soloist with area groups. He received his undergraduate degree from SIUE and is currently completing the requirements of a master's degree in music education. Choral Society membership is open to students attending classes at the university as well as members of the community interested in choral singing. No formal training is $75 more. Fuel economy necessary for participation.

Members of the Choral Society are required to pay a nominal membership fee and are expected to provide their own music.

The society will be performing the music of Brahms during its winter concert on March 3. The concert will include several songs from the "Liederslieder Waltzes," "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place" and "Schicksalsspiel" (The Song of Fate).

Two benefit concerts for the music scholarship fund at SIUE will be presented in May, featuring a performance of Arthur Honegger's "King David."

Those wishing to join the choral group may learn more about it by contacting the SIUE department of music at 692-3590 or by attending the rehearsals.

Diesels heavier

A typical U.S. diesel car weighs 500 pounds more than its gasoline-fueled counterpart and costs perhaps $750 more. Fuel economy with a diesel is 20 to 25 percent better, but a diesel has 10 to 20 percent less power than a gasoline engine of the same size.

Cold Weather puts severe pressure on underground gas lines. In some cases, this unusual pressure may be more than a line can withstand.

Illinois Power is taking extra steps to monitor our gas mains to detect possible leaks. But we can't be everywhere. So we need the cooperation of everyone.

Be Alert for The Odor of Natural Gas.
We add a distinctive odor to the gas that makes it easy to identify.

If you smell a gas leak anywhere, indoors or outdoors, phone us immediately. Tell our operator you're reporting a gas leak. Then tell the location. We'll have a serviceman there right away. Please be on hand when he arrives to help him locate the leak as fast as possible. Our crews are on duty and our emergency phone is manned 24 hours a day.

Explore changing career to teaching vocational classes

The School of Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will sponsor a two-day workshop Jan. 15 and 16 for people interested in career changes, particularly in the field of education. Vincent DeSanctis, assistant professor of education, said the workshop will be repeated Feb. 12 and 13.

Sessions for the workshop scheduled Jan. 15 and 16 will begin with a buffet at 5:30 p.m. on Jan. 15 and continue until 9:30 p.m. On Jan. 16, the sessions will run from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m.

The second workshop, Feb. 12 and 13, will follow the same schedule. All activities will be in the Mississippi-Illinois Room of the University Center. Both workshops are free, but registration is necessary for participation.

Funded by a grant from the Division of Adult Vocational and Technical Education, the workshops are aimed for people whose occupational skills may be adapted to vocational teaching at both the secondary and college levels.

Because a mid-career change concerns the whole family, DeSanctis recommends that both husbands and wives register for the workshops.

Coursework will include assisting participants in identifying their skills and abilities as they relate to the teaching profession. They will learn what training and preparation will be necessary to change careers, and will discuss strategies to use in seeking positions in the field of vocational and industrial arts education.

Instructors for the workshops include: Ellen Harshman, director of the Career Planning and Placement Center at St. Louis University; Richard D. Boss, visiting associate professor in the department of vocational education studies at SIU at Carbondale; John Washburn, assistant manager for program approval and evaluation with the Illinois State Board of Education; and Dale Besselt, dean of Occupational Education at Kaskaskia College.

To participate, individuals should have experience in an occupation or vocation. A college degree is not required, DeSanctis said.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Office of Conferences and Institutes, 692-2660, or Vincent DeSanctis in the department of secondary education 692-2652.

United Way faces 1980s with pluses and minuses

The past year for the Tri-Cities Area United Way indeed had many positive aspects but also some unexpected twists and turns. Perhaps the new year being launched with Thursday's annual meeting of contributors at 11:30 a.m. at Madison County Federal Savings and Loan, 3600 Nameoki Road—can restore a measure of equilibrium.

The year started with the unexplained elimination from the normal officer succession of a charismatic individual whose attitude and accomplishments had earned him UW "superstar" status, not banishment. An official later said the individual hadn't wanted to be considered for advancement, but in fact the individual wasn't consulted.

Procedures were altered without specific authorization to do so. The alteration narrowed the base of UW leadership and sharply reduced the amount of planning and decision-making that was subject to formal discussion and ratification votes. The scope of minutes, approvals and broad-based coordination, was sharply curtailed.

Contacts with agencies were altered, and often varied. The lack of procedural consistency caused confusion and seemed to result in less agency autonomy and increased centralization, agencies said. Justification could be cited for some movement toward greater central control. Obvious cost and service benefits were attained through a range of multi-agency cooperative ventures. Other progressive steps were taken. And undoubtedly all involved were motivated by high ideals and what they saw as worthy goals. But the degree of misunderstanding and concern has led some to contend there has been too much administrative manipulation and not enough open dealings.

If somebody didn't want there to be a seventh successive over-the-top campaign, one way to assure it might be to raise the basic goal by over 36 percent in one big bite. We don't think this was the reason; we think the big jump was well-intentioned.

But the figure wasn't determined in the same way as in previous years; there was an avoidance of contact with "older and wiser heads." In any case, the goal was raised by over 36 percent without benefit of such consultation, and the series of drive successes ended at six.

While negative trends have been cited in this commentary along with constructive developments, there certainly is a sound basis for Quad-Cityans to "walk tall." They can appropriately feel great pride in what they have done on their own initiative, and collectively—to help their fellow workers and residents.

A record $666,458 was raised this fall, including $210,000 from the Granite City Steel Labor Management Torch Club. A record distribution of $683,673 is planned during 1980.

Much was accomplished during the 1970s by the Tri-Cities Area United Way, fully justifying public confidence in it during the 1980s if it "accentuates the positive" objectives and momentum that began developing during the middle and late '70s.

The United Way truly consists of "people helping people" in a selfless, coordinated, efficient manner. And it seems to work best when the people of the local community are taken fully into its confidence.

There was an instance a few years back when a partially behind-the-scenes power play that could have proven detrimental to this community was attempted; it should not be repeated, and Quad-Cityans will worry less about such a possibility if UW's doors are left open, widely, to the public.

Mountainous challenges—and people to solve them

Press-Record Bureaus — A generation ago, Americans were fond of envisioning a future transformed by the wondrous technological breakthroughs.

Aside from imparting a certain thrill of anticipation, this view of the future was a natural product of the widespread belief in an accelerating and uninterrupted march toward a certain, better world.

Alas, the world and the future appear to be much less rational to this troubled generation. The characteristic optimism of most Americans is now blurred by doubts, their hopeful expectations dulled by apprehensions.

And, for the first time since World War II, Americans confront the dawn of a new decade unconvinced that it will bring an improvement in their own lives.

The tangible difficulties we face are apparent enough. The availability of energy in sufficient quantities to sustain our standard of living is far from assured. A stubborn, and worsening, monetary inflation poses a continuing threat to our economic security, most importantly, to our self-confidence.

Our supremacy as an industrial and commercial power is under the severest challenge from friends, neutrals, and adversaries alike.

No American can take comfort from the largest domestic steel manufacturer seeking advice from Japan on ways to modernize aging plants in Pittsburgh.

Our economic problems at home are mirrored by even larger worries abroad. As Henry Kissinger observed recently, nearly every continent is sliding toward crisis.

A stable world order underwritten by universally accepted standards of international conduct—the original goal of the United Nations charter—is being torn apart by forces as great as greed, ambition, and a lust for power reassert their historical demands.

It appears most likely, therefore, that the coming year and the decade it inaugurates will see Americans sorely tested individually and collectively.

While no good purpose is served by denying the severity of the challenges we face, neither must we underestimate our latent ability to endure and, in the end, to prevail.

We have more reasons to be hopeful than apprehensive. We enjoy the cumulative legacy of two centuries of responsible self-government, success in the teeth of every kind of adversity and, when necessary, our rise to his feet to denounce the tyrannical rule of King George III.

Summer, 1978. In the very same Hanover County Courthouse, John Paul Stevenson stands at the bar of justice. He is being tried for murder in secret, two centuries after Patrick Henry's plea for liberty.

Mr. Stevenson, a Baltimore man, was on trial Sept. 11 for the fatal stabbing of a hotel manager in Hanover County. Actually, it was the fourth time he was being tried for the crime.

Mr. Stevenson had been convicted in his first trial, but the Virginia Supreme Court overturned the verdict, finding that evidence had been improperly admitted during the trial. The second trial ended in a mistrial.

At the start of the fourth trial, Mr. Stevenson's lawyer, C. William Norwood, asked Judge Richard H. C. Taylor to close the courtroom to the public and the press.

Mr. Norwood's request was not a model of clarity: "I would like to ask everybody to be excluded from the courtroom because I don't want any information being shuffled back and forth between the press and the public."

At a lawyer for the Richmond newspapers had argued to keep the trial open, Judge Taylor granted Mr. Norwood's motion and the trial proceeded in secret.

Within two days the prosecution completed its case. The defense promptly asked Judge Taylor to strike fall, representing half the Illinois snowmobile owners. Snowmobiles, like boats, are registered for two years, with half the total number of registrations coming due each year.

So far, Davis said, only 499 registrations have renewed registrations which expired in September. That leaves 12,924 more who so far haven't gotten around to sending the $6 for their two-year renewal.

Presently applications are being processed with a two-week turn-around time, Davis said, but snowmo-ball and permit section for DOC, said that 26,373 renewal applications were sent out last

Failure on Iran being alleged

Wall Street Journal — The turn of the year is occasion for a fresh look, and as 1980 begins the time has come to recognize squarely that President Carter's policy on the Iranian crisis has been an abject failure.

From the standpoint of the hostages' welfare, after two months 50 Americans are still subject to captivity and humiliation in Tehran. Each of the supposed reasons for hope has been rebuffed and dashed.

The American "victories" in mobilizing the "world opinion" at the United Nations have been shrugged off. The World Court has ruled. The vote on a new Iranian constitution has come and gone.

The Shah has departed from his hospital bed in New York for Panama. Christmas has passed. Still the hostages are held.

From the goodwill visits by three clergymen, we learn that seven of the hostages seem to be in mortal danger; the missing names from the clergyman list include three U.S. diplomats specifically accused of spying by their captors.

From the standpoint of the U.S. national interests the record is even worse. The spectacle of the United States lacking the resources and will to protect its own diplomats.

The ease with which Yankee fangs have been pulled has sent tremors among those who must themselves rely on American protection, has emboldened future terrorists everywhere and has encouraged the most adventurist factions of our major adversary.

We already see the results in the Indian Ocean. The hostages now held in Tehran were captured in the second embassy seizure. There had been a dress rehearsal in February.

At that time a contingent of Marines intended to provide more security was stranded in the Azores. There were warnings, not least from the chairman, that such incidents would recur if the administration failed to take more drastic steps.

It had still failed to secure its embassy. The administration's reactions during the crisis in attacks on American embassies in other Islamic lands in the bold threat to Saudi Arabia implicit in the message to plead for help from the powerless Iranian civil government, to announce a non-provocative policy effectively ruling out the use of force, and to dispatch Ramsey Clark to negotiate, on the theory that he had more nasty things about the Shah than any other available American.

From this beginning, the Ayatollah Khomeini, the embassy terrorists and so on learned that they had nothing serious to fear; nothing has been done since to dispel that impression.

The most notable thing about the early days of the crisis, indeed, was the willing anger of the American people.

While trying not to provoke the terrorists, the Carter administration set out to pacify the Americans. Pleas for calm were mixed with tough speeches and largely cosmetic sanctions like embargoing oil shipments from Iran.

Administration leaks agitated the question, "who admitted the Shah?" The safety of the hostages was kept foremost, the issue of national interest diminished.

In private conversations among foreign policy elites, containing the sentiments of the American people became an explicit objective.

At least for the moment, the policy of pacification seems to have worked. People seem to be preparing to undergo the trials which in the early days President Carter ruled out as outrageous—as a price for freeing 43 of the 50 hostages.

Among the once-angry people, the all-purpose response to any criticism of the administration policy has become, "Well, what would you do, send in the Marines?"

Well, the first thing we would do is to fire the whole lot of policymakers who have blundered us into such an awful mess.

At State, for example, Harold Saunders, David Newsom, Peter Constable, Henry Precht. This is not a flip response; any corporation or football team knows that when you have a debacle you bring in new people.

The exact tactical responses in any event cannot be specified from the outside, where you lack even such simple information as the backgrounds of the hostages.

The precise moves would have to be worked out by a fresh team, but the directions of policy review are clear enough.

First we would not rule out any option, including helicopter landings in the 27-acre embassy compound.

We would certainly load Marines on the aircraft carriers in the Indian Ocean a step the Carter people still have not taken, as at least a start toward recreating the potential for threat they dissipated in the first few days of the crisis.

We would advise American businesses, including news organizations, that their personnel in Iran were potential hostages and that we could not guarantee their safety.

We would discourage new visas for Iran, which might involve a formal break in diplomatic relations.

We would bypass the United Nations, which is as always a substitute for doing something.

We would start to establish a rhetorical posture stressing that patience has not helped the hostages, that their lives are already at risk, and that in any event important national interests are at stake.

We would hope that such shows of new resolution would facilitate a peaceful solution, though such hopes would have been much stronger in the early days of the crisis before we provided so much evidence of irresolution.

At some point, we certainly would be willing to use military force to resolve the issue.

It is hard, almost impossible, to imagine the Carter administration doing any of these things.

About its only expertise in foreign policy consists of dissipating the domestic reaction to successive failures.

What ever happened to the Soviet brigades? For you or me, but that it is changing his mind about the Russians—as if none of us were trying to let him—Mr. Carter is laying the ground to dissipate not only Iran but Afghanistan.

Our hunch is that in the end the American people won't let him get away with it.

They will not go on forever seeing a unity behind a president whose policy is to do nothing.

If the course of policy is not changed, the American people will start a lot higher on the team than a undersecretary of state.

Growth of secret trials

Wall Street Journal — WINTER, 1973. The Hanover County Courthouse, near Richmond, Va., is filled to overflowing. Patrick Henry rises to his feet to denounce the tyrannical rule of King George III.

Within two days the prosecution completed its case. The defense promptly asked Judge Taylor to strike the prosecutor's evidence. The judge agreed and the prosecutor declared Mr. Stevenson not guilty.

Who, after four trials, did Judge Taylor throw out the case's case and set free a man charged with murder? The public could not find out the next day by reading Richmond newspapers. The newspapers didn't know.

The judge didn't volunteer to explain. It wasn't until 14 months later, after the case that any newspaper story on the hearing could result in "a reasonable probability of prejudice" to these defendants' rights to obtain an impartial jury.

Gannett appealed. The New York Court of Appeals upheld the secrecy order, and on July 2 the U.S. Supreme Court concurred in a five-four decision.

Justice Potter Stewart's majority opinion went beyond the issue at hand, the closing of a pre-trial hearing.

"The Constitution nowhere mentions any part of access to the public to the trial of the public... Our cases have uniformly recognized the public's right to know what goes on at pre-trial hearings because 90 percent of criminal cases in the U.S. are decided before they come to trial."

The argument for closing trials is more difficult. A juror can always acquiesce a jury to prevent jurors from reading or hearing reports about the trial.

But the First and Sixth Amendments really collide? An Oregon Supreme Court Justice, Hans A. Linde, challenges the entire concept of conflicting constitutional rights.

He says: "A constitutional right is a claim that runs against the government."

to its meaning. The fog may be dispersed soon. The Supreme Court has agreed to take an appeal of the Richmond Newspapers in Hanover County's secret murder trial of John Paul Stevenson.

The newspaper's brief argues: "This appeal presents the Court with a ripe opportunity to determine whether its decision in Gannett Co., Inc. v. DePascual may be invoked to sanction the whole, found that any newspaper story on the hearing could result in 'a reasonable probability of prejudice' to these defendants' rights to obtain an impartial jury."

usually not a claim that the government is doing something for you or me, but that it refrain from doing something to us.

"The Constitution prescribes how government is to behave and how not. Only a government can violate a constitutional command."

Judge Linde concedes that if the two guarantees of free press and fair trial were not constitutional rights but issues of ordinary law then "a legislature or a court might simply trade off the public's interest in a free press against the public's and the defendant's interest in a trial unprejudiced by pre-trial disclosures or sensationalism."

And he notes that the courts in Britain have done just this "by the threat of punishment for contempt of court."

Immediately, however, he reminds us that "British law is not constrained by a First Amendment."

Judge Linde will have no truck with the notion that there can be conflicts between constitutional rights. He transforms the defendant's fair trial claim against the state into a claim against the media. It lets the state turn two constitutional limitations on its powers into a classic example of "let's you and him fight." It asks defendants and reporters to trade off their rights between themselves or let a court do it for them.

"But this is not constitutional law. At least, not if we remember our premise that the Bill of Rights consists of guarantees against government action, not one guarantee against censorship," another guarantee against conceptions by prejudiced juries.

Flooding problem is continuing

To the Editor:

Hurry! Just what the City of Madison needs — a new mini-mall, a new trash pickup system, and two more city employees going back to Florida to check out a cable TV system again.

We would like to compliment Mayor Sasyk on his priorities that the residents of our city need, except he has forgotten about one priority which "should be placed at the top of his list."

That is the flooding problem the residents in the 1700 block of Elizabeth Street are still having.

We guess Mayor Sasyk has forgotten about the letter that was written by the residents on Elizabeth Street back in August, and published in the Press-Record, because we have yet to see this problem corrected as he promised it would be.

As taxpayers in the City of Madison, we are all for the cable TV system with its many emergency systems built into it, and also the mini-mall, which might bring in more revenue for the city.

As for the new trash pickup system, why should the businesses be charged a $10 to $25 fee for trash pickup? They pay taxes just like everyone else and should be entitled to the same services as every other resident without having to pay an extra fee.

Residents in the 1700 block of Elizabeth Street probably are the most benefited of the new trash pickup system.

We will be able to bucket the water that floods our

Snowmobile use growing

SPRINGFIELD — Roughly 80,000 snowmobiles are roaring around the central and northern parts of Illinois, a number which is increasing by about 7,000 a year, Department of Conservation (DOC) figures show.

Among those approximately 80,000 are 13,000 which will not be able to run legally, no matter how nice the future snowfall may be, unless their owners hurry to apply for a renewal of their expired state registrations.

Hal Davis, in the license and permit section for DOC, said that 26,373 renewal applications were sent out last fall, representing half the Illinois snowmobile owners. Snowmobiles, like boats, are registered for two years, with half the total number of registrations coming due each year.

So far, Davis said, only 499 registrations have renewed registrations which expired in September. That leaves 12,924 more who so far haven't gotten around to sending the $6 for their two-year renewal.

Understanding your children's behavior

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County
Extension Adviser,
Home Economics

When you are upset with children's behavior, try to see the world from their point of view. Put yourself in your children's shoes and you need to redirect their behavior.

Remember that every action has a cause or explanation. Usually, children will exhibit the type of behavior that gets them what they want. For example, if whining proves a successful technique, children learn to use it.

Be sure your children know what behaviors you find acceptable. When children learn that socially acceptable behaviors have positive results, they learn to use them.

Children may misbehave if the weather keeps them indoors. If they feel hungry, their behavior is also likely to reflect discontent.

During times such as these, it is best for parents to be patient with children and try to change the situation when possible. Keeping children busy with activities that are interesting and fun helps.

Often, children misbehave when their parents' attention is taken away from them. Children need positive attention daily. They need to know you have some time reserved just for them.

Waiting too long for things they want, or not being able to do something themselves, may result in aggressive outbursts or demanding behavior. Set a helpful example by showing more appropriate ways to express feelings and identify wants.

If children become overly excited, they may forget how to behave or simply lose control. Prepare children for a special event by telling them what to expect. Remove them from situations they cannot handle, or give them help to handle these situations.

Sometimes parents may suspect there is only one cause for behavior when there may be several. Consider all factors which might be contributing to the total behavior.

Parents should ask themselves, "Am I part of the problem or part of the solution? How do I react to the child's behavior? By changing your reactions to children and to situations, you may also help children cope and behave more appropriately."

Card of Thanks 32

WE WISH to extend our thanks and appreciation for the kindness, messages, memorials and floral offerings at the loss of our dear mother, grandmother, sister, sister-in-law, and aunt, KATHARINE MICHEL. Dissolve committee; file financial papers

The People's Right to Vote Committee, created in 1977 to fight an attempt by the City Council to change the post of Granite City street superintendent from elected to appointed, will be officially dissolved today to settle objections from the state board of elections.

The committee, which has been inactive since the 1977 election, was cited by the state board of elections to file financial disclosure statements since January 1978 (required by state law).

The Press-Record disclosed two weeks ago.

Attorney Leon Scroggins met Thursday with Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowers to discuss the form the dissolution documents should take, and the final forms were signed in Scroggins' office at noon Saturday.

Financial statements covering the period since January 1978 were received Wednesday by Miss Bowles' office but contained clerical errors, the county clerk told Scroggins, so amended financial statements also were signed Saturday and will be filed with the clerk today, the Press-Record was told.

Virgil Kambarian of Granite City, treasurer of the organization, said the election board's notice threatening to initiate legal actions against him for his failure to file the required documents earlier is the result of a "misunderstanding."

He commented, "When the committee was active, I was commended by the state board of elections for filing all of my reports on time. A letter of commendation is on file."

"When the committee disbanded, I did not know I had to continue filing financial statements, since we had no money coming in or going out," Kambarian said.

2 passengers are injured
Two passengers in the auto of Anita D. Moore, East St. Louis, were injured when she stopped the northbound vehicle on McCambridge Avenue at Third Street and it was struck from behind by the auto of Ralph Ebersold, 224 Granville St., Venice, which skidded on the wet pavement.

Thursday, the Illinois Department of Transportation issued a traffic citation by state troopers.

Passengers in Anita Moore's car who were injured were Nadine Dover, 22, and Rodney Blasingsame, 23, both of East St. Louis.

Both underwent X-rays at St. Elizabeth Medical Center related to low back pain and were released.

Friday, Jan. 11, at 10 a.m. at State Community College, 2325 State St., East St. Louis. The inspection program is mandated by 1977 Clean Air Act Amendments.

The Act requires that testing must begin in 1982 in any urban area of the nation which fails to attain the clean air standards for ozone and carbon monoxide by that date.

An Illinois Environmental Protection Agency study has concluded that neither the Chicago nor the local urban area will meet the deadline.

The inspection and maintenance program, as it is called in the Clean Air Act, involves not only an annual inspection of tailpipe emissions, but also requires motorists to have their vehicles tuned and retested if the inspection indicates the vehicle is polluting too much.

The program is required as long as air pollution violations occur.

Inspection and maintenance programs are presently being employed by several cities and states around the nation to combat urban smog problems. New Jersey has had a mandatory program since 1974; Portland, Ore., since 1975; and Phoenix and Tucson since 1977 and Los Angeles since 1979.

The responsibility for designing and administering the inspection and maintenance program has been delegated to the state by the federal Clean Air Act.

The Illinois EPA has finished a study of the alternative methods of running a testing program and has presented the results to the Special House-Senate Joint Committee on Inspection and Maintenance for its consideration.

No more 'smoke filled rooms'

Press-Record photo feature by Bill Winter

PEOPLE

Political leaders open door to public as they compare rival candidates

Thick cigar smoke and back-room deliberations were associated with political slate-making for many years, here and elsewhere.

But Madison County's organized Democrats, unable to influence most of the primary races two years ago, this winter ended the "smoke-filled room" tradition.

Panel members representing the county party's executive committee called for "a breath of fresh air" and opened the doors to the public as they interviewed prospective 1980 primary candidates.

County Democratic Chairman Chris Costoff of Madison and other party leaders praised the conduct of citizens and the press at the screening interviews, and termed the experiment a success. Actual voting on endorsements was done privately by the full executive group after hearing the screening unit's recommendations.

The only disappointment voiced was the lack of a big public turnout for the interviews. However, the size of the meeting room at the Edwardsville Holiday Inn would not have permitted a huge crowd, and the noise of a party in an adjacent room made it difficult for spectators to hear some of the questions and answers on the initial evening, a Friday. The interviews encountered no such noise problem for the second session, on a Saturday afternoon.

Officelholders and would-be officelholders of all varieties appeared and were given an opportunity to discuss themselves and their candidacies for several minutes. For the remainder of each 20-minute session, questions were voiced and answered.

Among those participating was Appellate Judge Moses Harrison of Madison County, shown in the picture at the left. He is on the ballot for both appellate and circuit judge positions.

Panel members not shown here included Harry Briggs, Richard Lucas and State Rep. Sam Wolf, who is secretary-treasurer of the county Democrats. There was a return to the fold by some who have indicated independent leanings in the past. Among them was State Rep. Jim McPike, who once protested such screenings but this year asked to be endorsed (and was). He backed the public nature of the interviews was a big factor in his reversal.

Sandy Pence served as doorkeeper for the screening panel, not to keep out the public but to summon the various candidates when the group was ready for them. Rep. Wolf did not participate on the panel during any of the legislative interviews.

The "proof of the pudding" will be the outcome of the March 18 primary election. Not everyone believes the party should voice a preference among the primary contenders, instead merely backing the various primary winners in the general election. If there are to be primary endorsements, however, the committee is convinced that it can make better choices by listening to and questioning the aspirants.

All those endorsed agreed to participate financially in meeting costs associated with conducting the election campaign.

Those backed were Harrison and Circuit

Judge Horace Calvo for two appellate judge positions, Charles Chapman for a circuit judge post, Nicholas Byron for Madison County state's attorney, Willard "Butch" Portell for circuit clerk, Ronald Lucas for recorder of deeds, Arthur "Pete" Fields for county auditor and Mrs. Dallas Burke for coroner.

Wolf and McPike were endorsed for two state representative positions in the 56th District, Michael Slape and Sam Nail in the 55th, and Gary Hannig and John Sharp in the 49th.

Will the experiment of public interviews be continued in future years?

Probably yes, panel members indicated. But in the meantime they plan to keep a close eye on the March balloting to see whether the electorate pays more attention to their recommendations than in 1978.

Mrs. Grammaticoff dies

Funeral services were held Saturday in Normandy, Mo., for Mrs. Pauline Grammaticoff, 88, of Missouri, who helped her husband run the Bulgarian National Herald newspaper at 1814 Delmar Ave., from 1913 to 1934.

Mrs. Grammaticoff died Wednesday at Normandy Osteopathic Hospital of arteriosclerosis. She was born in Bulgaria and her husband, Vasil Grammaticoff, came to the United States in 1910, located in Granite City and started what was, at that time, the nation's only Bulgarian language newspaper.

She joined him in 1913 and worked on the newspaper as a typewriter operator until publication of the paper ceased in 1934. He died in 1965.

Mrs. Grammaticoff was a past president and charter member of the Bulgarian Women's Club and was a member of the Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church of Madison.

Surviving are a daughter, Nada Henson of Northwoods, Mo.; a brother, Kiril Petroff of Granite City and two sisters, Elenka Dunin and Emigra Uzundjalieva, both of Bulgaria.

1,000 at program in Mitchell

In celebration of the holiday season, students at Mitchell School presented their annual music program for 1,000 parents, friends and fellow pupils.

An hour-long open house was held throughout the school building prior to the concert presentation, which attracted a crowd almost twice as large as was anticipated.

The seasonal production was under the direction of Mrs. Beverlee Williams, music teacher, with each grade level taking part.

A special singing group, named the Sunshine Singers, performed a series of melodies.

Other sequences featured costumed students in dance segments and instrumental numbers.

Principal Arthur Menendez welcomed the visitors.

Gift voted for the Kiwanis Foundation

Every member of the Breakfast Kiwanis voted Thursday morning to each make a contribution to the Kiwanis International Fund.

The 100 percent participation by the club will entitle the Breakfast Kiwanis Club to receive special recognition from Kiwanis International.

The foundation supports many forms of charitable activities, including hearing research, assistance to deaf and needy children, various youth programs and other forms of handicapped assistance.

Kiwanian Herbert S. Camren made a presentation to the club on the activities of the fund.

Plans were discussed for a ladies' night during the week of Feb. 14, in keeping with the Valentine season.

Kiwanis President William L. Fever announced that at the next Kiwanis meeting an Illinois Power Company film will be shown.

The film tells the company's side of the nuclear power electricity generating plant at Clinton, Ill.

The plant was the topic of a recent television program which criticized handling of the power plant construction.

HEALTH FAIR '80 NEEDS YOUR HELP

Q. WHAT IS A HEALTH FAIR?

- A. A Health Fair is FREE health screening tests made available to the whole community, plus counseling and referral follow-ups!

There are screening tests for blood pressure, anemia and vision and blood tests for cholesterol and diabetes. Screening tests for hearing, glaucoma and oral cancer may also be performed at selected Health Fair sites, depending on the availability of equipment and qualified personnel.

The purpose of health screening is to provide early detection of potential health problems and to educate the public in preventive health care. It in no way replaces an examination by a physician.

The thrust of all Health Fairs is the counseling and referral follow-ups, with emphasis on educational and preventive health care.

Q. HOW DOES THE HEALTH FAIR WORK TO INSURE THAT IT WILL REACH THE TOTAL COMMUNITY?

- A. Health Fairs are conducted concurrently in many different locations throughout the community during the seven-day Fair. In San Francisco, for example, there were 70 different Health Fair sites (in shopping malls, churches, schools, senior citizen centers, places of business, etc.) to insure that each member of the community had reasonable access to the services being offered through Health Fair.

Q. WHY ARE YOU NEEDED?

- A. You are needed to insure its success through the volunteering and/or donating of facilities, personnel, services, equipment, etc.

The success of the aforementioned Health Fairs was accomplished through the efforts of over 2,000 community groups, businesses and organizations. With your help and your involvement, the success of this Health Fair will be assured.

WE WOULD LIKE ORGANIZATIONS TO PARTICIPATE, INDIVIDUALS TO HELP AND BUSINESSES TO SPONSOR SCREENING SITES. PLEASE CONTACT ROGER FRANCK, ST. ELIZABETH MEDICAL CENTER, 798-3005 OR MS. YOCHUM AT 314-535-9666. PLEASE RESPOND NO LATER THAN JANUARY 16, 1980.

Predict new savings, mortgages in 1980

Leading Illinois savings and loan industry spokesmen foresee new types of savings and mortgages to benefit consumers during 1980.

The newly authorized 2½-year floating rate certificate of deposit (CD) for savers and three new types of mortgages for borrowers will be important, according to board members of the Illinois Savings and Loan League, trade group for the state's 384 savings and loan associations.

"The new 2½-year CD eventually will be an excellent savings certificate. But until 6-month money market certificate rates drop, they won't attract many savers," said Albert Lucas, president of Macomb Savings and Loan.

"The public should look at it closely. The 2½-year CD is a better vehicle for savings and more realistic," said Norbert Babicz, president of Norwood Federal Savings and Loan, Chicago.

The certificates, authorized Jan. 1 by federal financial regulators, have no minimum and currently pay about 11 percent.

But board member Warren E. Bachert, president of Home Savings and Loan in Aurora, believes the new savings certificate will be bad for the financial and housing industries.

"This one surprised me. The regulators are shortening maturities and increasing costs of money. It could have a crippling effect on the housing market," Bachert said.

In mortgage lending, League board members see development of three new kinds of loans during 1980.

"The graduated payment mortgage (GPM) will start to be utilized by federally chartered associations. Also, legislation will permit the Canadian rollover mortgage (ROM) or variable rate mortgages (VRMs), preferably the rollover, said Richard C. May, League president and president of Illinois Federal Savings and Loan, Fairview Heights.

"Almost all new forms of mortgages will become available this year," predicted Bachert. "VRMs may be allowed, but the rollover mortgage is the key one, the most important," he said.

"We definitely must have the Canadian rollover mortgage. It's the only answer."

"Mortgages could be written for 15 years at current market rates, and then renegotiate the loan," Lucas said. "VRMs are not worth a darn. They are too much trouble."
